ACTIVITY IS REPORTED IN WAR SECTORS

Preparations Being Made for Beginning of the Spring Operations

BIG GUNS ARE KEPT BUSY NEAR YPRES AND CAMBRAI

Lively Aerial and Artillery Fighting On the American Front

(Compiled from A. P. Dispatches.)

Raiding operations and artillery duels are increasing on the western front as the time for the beginning of the spring operations approaches. Two years ago, after a successful attack at Sochez, the Germans began their drive on Verdun with heavy artillery fire on Feb. 21, while last year the British captured Grandcourt, on the Somme front, on Feb. 7 and the Germans two weeks later retired from the Ancre, the first step in the retreat to the Hindenburg line.

All official statements report great artillery activity. The big guns have been busy around Ypres and before Cambrai, on the British front, on the right bank of the Meuse, on the French front, and on the American sector. The British have made a successful raid northeast of Ypres and French raiders brought back prisoners from the Argonne. German attempts near Cambrai and near Corbeny, in Champagne, were repulsed by the British and French respectively.

There has been lively aerial and artillery fighting on the American sector northwest of Toul. The skies there have cleared and the Germans are reported to be bombarding villages which they had left untouched for many months.

Intense air action has been active. British fliers Monday dropped three tons of bombs and accounted for eight enemy airplanes with the loss of one machine.

On the Italian front Italian and British aviators have brought down 13 enemy machines, while the Germans again have bombed Padua.

In Russia the situation appears less favorable to the Bolsheviks. A decree by the Bolshevik government separating state and church and confiscating church property has aroused the opposition of Archbishop Tikhon, the patriarch of All Russia, who has called upon his followers to defend the church. The church and the church is said to be approaching an acute stage.

New military opposition to the Bolsheviks has arisen in the Tartars and Poles. Ensign Krylenko, commander-in-chief of the Bolshevik armies, is reported to have been arrested by Polish troops who captured Mohilev. Tartar forces are moving on Sebastopol, the naval base on the Black Sea, after having captured Calta, in the Crimea. In Kiev, the Ukrainians are reported to have gained the upper hand.

After conferences with the German emperor, the German and Austrian foreign ministers are reported to be returning to Berlin. German newspapers indicate that peace is reached with the Ukraine, little attention will be paid to the Bolsheviks. The conferences in Berlin continued throughout an entire day, the crown prince, the Bulgarian premier and the Turkish grand vizier also taking part. A crown council meeting was held.

CHEMISTS WILL ESCAPE DRAFT

(Associated Press Telegram)

Washington, Feb. 6.—Announcement has been made by the adjutant general of the United States army that chemists engaged in the production of material necessary for the prosecution of the war, who have lost the services of highly specialized chemists through the first draft and whose work thereby has been seriously handicapped, again may obtain the services of these men for war-work. It is also announced that manufacturers threatened with the loss of their trained chemists in the present draft may retain them. Manufacturers affected are requested to apply to their local service section, national army interior department building, Washington, for the regulations governing the transfer of men already drafted, or the possible reclassification of men not yet called.

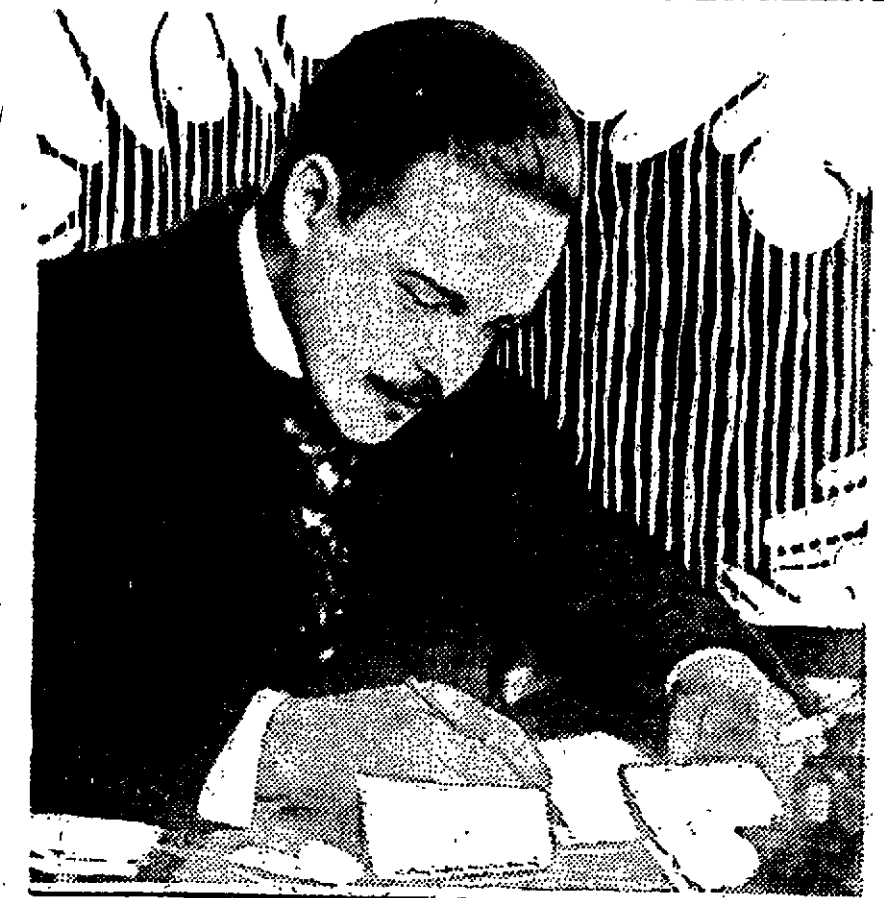

These steps have been taken by the war department with a view toward bracing about adequate chemical control of manufacturing plants engaged in the supply of war material and to assure that there will be no unnecessary retarding of supplies for the successful conduct of the war.

HEATLESS MONDAYS TO BE CONTINUED AS THE FUEL SHORTAGE IS VERY ACUTE

(Associated Press Telegram)

Washington, Feb. 6.—Continuation of the heatless Monday program as essential to the relief of the acute coal shortage in the east has been decided upon by the fuel and railroad administrations.

Hope of revoking the order was abandoned yesterday after Administrator Garfield and Director General McAdoo had considered reports of eastern state fuel administrators that many sections were down to a one-day fuel supply. A joint statement explaining the conclusions of the fuel and railroad administrations is expected today.

Some relief in the east from the bitter cold of the past few days was seen today in slowly-rising temperatures and officials said, increased movement of coal might be expected.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN BURIED TODAY IN BOSTON CEMETERY

(Associated Press Telegram)

Boston, Feb. 6.—Final tribute to a great champion was paid today when the body of John L. Sullivan was buried in Calvary cemetery. In the crowds that lined the snow-filled streets as the casket was borne from the home of Sullivan's sister, Mrs. Annie Lennon to St. Paul's church where the funeral mass was celebrated, were scores of children bidding farewell to their big "Pal."

Sullivan virtually had been out of sporting life since James J. Corbett's American heavyweight championship from him by a knockout at New Orleans in 1892, and the honor paid his memory today came from walks far removed from the "squared circle."

Leaders of the temperance movement were there to testify to their regard for the man who boasted that his greatest victory was gained when he conquered drink. Many were there also whom the former champion had helped in their hours of need. The sporting fraternity came in numbers from far and near.

High mass was celebrated by Rev. Frederick J. Allichin, assistant pastor of St. Paul's church. The burial was in Calvary cemetery at Forest Hills beside the body of Sullivan's wife.

From the home of Sullivan's sister to St. Paul's cathedral church the funeral procession proceeded through streets thickly lined with people. There was a tremendous jam about the church and every seat in the building was filled, with hundreds in the aisles and in the rear. More than half the attendants were women.

It was much like a big gathering of neighbors, anxious to pay tribute to the memory of an old friend. Indeed, there was nothing to indicate that it was the funeral of a man rated high in the sporting world in his day.

James J. Corbett, who wrested the championship from Sullivan more than a score of years ago, was not present. Corbett sent a floral offering and a telegram expressing his regrets that he would be unable to come here for the funeral.

Among the old fighter's sporting friends at the church were "Yaak" Sullivan of Syracuse, N. Y.; James O'Brien of Troy, N. Y.; Thomas Hanton, Chicago; Wm. M. Manchester, N. H.; Tim Cronin of Lawrence; Thomas King of Gloucester and a host of lesser ring lights. Calvin Coolidge of Gloucester, attended as official representative of Sullivan's native state.

FIVE KILLED AT NEW WATERFORD, O. BY PENNSY FLYER

(Associated Press Telegram)

Youngstown, O., Feb. 6.—Five men were killed instantly and four others injured, all probably fatally, near New Waterford, 15 miles west of here, shortly after nine o'clock this morning when they were struck by an eastbound Pennsylvania flyer.

The dead are: J. C. O. Rauch, John Hollibaugh, Joseph Catt, and two unidentified Turks, known by numbers 545 and 548. The identity of the injured is not yet known.

The men were engaged as section hands on the railroad and had just jumped from one track to the other to avoid being struck by a fast approaching westbound freight unconsciously of the nearness of the passenger train which struck them, before they could gain safety on the siding. Construction was the foreman of the men. The men were long residents of New Waterford, and the four men injured three were rushed to the hospital at Salem, Ohio, and one was taken to the railroad construction camp.

SHIPPING PROBLEM IS DISCUSSED BY PRESIDENT WILSON

(Associated Press Telegram)

Washington, Feb. 6.—All phases of the shipping problem pressing the government to find available tonnage for the movement of American troops and supplies overseas, were before President Wilson today in a report of the situation prepared by Chairman Hurley of the shipping board. The president personally took up the problem last night at a conference with Mr. Hurley.

A plan to reduce by one-half all imports from the Orient and South America was laid before the president and likelihood of its adoption was indicated.

To relieve the shortage in the South American and Oriental grades that inevitably will be caused by the reduction the shipping board intends to put at the disposal of the affected importers sailing vessels and neutral craft.

SCHOOLS OF INSTRUCTION FOR SELECTS

Special Mention for Officers Who Have Done the Best Work

ELEVEN MENTIONED TODAY FOR FRENCH MORTAR WORK

Non Commissioned Officers Praised By British Military Instructor

(Associated Press Telegram)

Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, Ohio, Feb. 6.—The cherished "cited for bravery" and "mentioned for doing" that folks back home like to read of their own soldiers in foreign lands are being awarded Ohio selective draft soldiers at Camp Sherman in the training sense and soldier friends of the "selected few" talk of the showing their own outfit representatives made just about as would soldiers in France of Americans winning praise.

The Camp Sherman mention comes in the form of memorandums of the offices of the commanding general and they go to all commanding officers in camp and are posted. Today there was a list of eleven given out. They are ones who have done excellent work in the schools of instruction in light trench mortar work under direction of Captain Yoxall of the British military mission. The memorandum says their work has been so good that they now are entitled to act as instructors for their own organizations.

Corporal J. B. Homan of the 330th infantry won highest honors and Second Lieutenant R. B. Foreman of the 308th trench mortar battalion was second. Others, named in order of merit are:

Sergeant J. K. Dodd, 330th infantry; Sergeant F. C. Kirchoff, Ninth training battalion depot brigade; Corporal E. Dickenson, 322nd infantry; Lieutenant J. C. Sargent, 332nd infantry; Second Lieutenant R. T. Lowry, seventh training battalion depot brigade; Second Lieutenant W. W. Ward, 329th infantry; Lieutenant E. B. Chancey, 332nd infantry and Corporal W. Kluber, 330th infantry.

"Proficiency in the use of the bayonet" might be a degree for another class complimented from General Perkin's headquarters. Fifty-four non-commissioned officers of the 332nd infantry regiment took a special course under Captain Owen of the British military mission.

"Captain Owen is especially pleased with the progress shown by this class," says the memorandum. Names of all in the class are printed and posted, with special comment on 23 of the number. The ranking first ten are Sergeants G. E. Jordan, Company E; Sergeant A. S. Richardson, Company H; Corporals Wilson and P. E. Nixon, machine gun company; Corporal H. Kissane, Company B; Sergeant G. L. Boedick, Company A; Corporal C. C. Kapp, Company L; Corporal L. Ricks, Company C; Corporal G. E. Galt, Company D.

There are hundreds of classes in all sorts of things military being conducted regularly in Camp Sherman. More than 100 classes are now active for foreigners. It came from reliable sources today that one reason for holding enemy aliens here longer than expected is to get results of instruction work that the government has found of such big benefit in its "Americanization" efforts. There are classes in French for officers, for non-commissioned officers and for privates and schools are just being started for negro soldiers in training here.

The Y. M. C. A. has started educational work for its sixty-six secretaries to German military agents in the United States, dated Jan. 15, 1915, and signed "General Headquarters, Dr. Fisher."

U. S. ARTILLERY CONTINUES SHELLING AND AIRCRAFT GUNS REPEL HUN FLIERS

France, Feb. 5.—(By the Associated Press)—American artillery kept up a continuous fire on the enemy batteries throughout Tuesday and the Germans responded with the result that there was lively shelling along the entire sector.

The American anti-aircraft guns were busy repelling attempts of enemy airmen to cross over the American lines.

A number of the military police today found three little French children—a girl and two boys—lying along a road immediately behind the front which is shelled very frequently. He turned the children over to an ambulance-driver who returned them to their homes in a nearby village.

TROUBLE BUREAU FOR THE SELECTS AT CAMP SHERMAN

Washington, Feb. 6.—A "trouble bureau" described in an announcement of the committee on public information today as a "place where the men may carry their worries and talk them over with sympathetic welfare workers" has been established for the soldiers at Camp Sherman, Ohio.

The trouble bureau, says the committee, also "quiets the fears of anxious women folk who write for information of neglectful sons and husbands and not infrequently settles domestic difficulties."

Operation of the bureau is entrusted to H. Y. Barnes, formerly assistant director of the Toledo Artillery Museum. Another active in Camp Sherman welfare work is Major William C. Everson, formerly Baptist pastor of Norwood, O.

Explains Previous Statements Made Were His General Opinions

NOT FACTS AND DETAILS PREPARED BY EXPERTS

Cross Examination Conducted By Senator Weeks for Military Committee

(Associated Press Telegram)

Washington, Feb. 6.—Secretary Baker came up for cross examination today before the senate military committee on his picture of the state of preparedness of the army, which congressional critics have attacked as "grossly exaggerated."

But the principal point of the whole controversy—the question of where the army is going to get ships to transport a million men to France this year—was left untouched, partly because Secretary Baker did not have the detailed figures to show the committee on what basis he made his assertion, and partly because the committee got into a squabble over whether it would be proper to have the secretary of war disclose the figures in public.

The upshot of it was that the question was left to be presented in detailed exact statements to the committee in secret session tomorrow and the cross examination went to other subjects of a general nature.

Senator Hitchcock, who has attacked particularly the secretary of war's statement that the United States could put a million men in France this year—in addition to 500,000 there early this spring—was insistent that Mr. Baker should show the committee what grounds he had for believing these exact statements.

Secretary Baker replied he did not have the exact figures in his mind but that his statement was made on figures which had been prepared by experts who took the information at the disposal of the shipping board as well as what ships would be available from neutral and foreign sources. "The secretary made plain that he was not counting wholly on American ships to transport the troops," said Senator Weeks.

Secretary Baker did say, however, that probably the form of his original statement to the committee, which has been made the basis of attack, was unfortunate in that it expressed his general opinion of a broad situation rather than the exact statements of experts dealing in details.

"This misfortune for me, if I may call it such," said Secretary Baker, "lay in the fact that I attempted to give opinions on the broad general situation as I saw it when the information lay in details that ought to have been gotten from the experts in direct charge, or in statistics giving specific facts. I was attempting a general survey. It was a misfortune for me to do that."

An estimate of 791,000 tons of ships available for transport on Feb. 1, the secretary said, he thought was small rather than too large.

The shipping board Senator Hitchcock had advised him that on Nov. 1 there were available 552 American ships, all of more than 1500 tons each, including tank ships and the German and Austrian ships taken over.

Mr. Baker did not know how many troops that number of ships would transport but promised to inform the committee later.

(Associated Press Telegram)

Washington, Feb. 6.—Cross examination of Secretary Baker on his recent statement before the senate military committee was begun at a public hearing before the committee today.

Secretary Baker's cross examination was begun by Senator Weeks of Massachusetts, Republican, in connection with the number of troops to be sent abroad this year.

Secretary Baker said more troops had been transported to France, including both non-combatants and fighting forces than had been planned.

Secretary Baker and Senator Weeks agreed that it was improper to disclose the number of American troops now in France.

Transportation of fighting troops was temporarily reduced, Secretary Baker said in discussing the shipping situation by the necessity of sending larger engineering forces. He did not have with him detailed statistics regarding available ships but promised to supply it.

The shipping board and the war department, Secretary Baker said, are in constant contact, exhaustively studying the shipping situation. General Bliss, he said, took the information abroad as a basis of calculation in connection with the shipping situation. About 120,000 tons additional have recently been secured.

Senator Weeks asked if it were true that the war department had 791,000 tons of ships available for transporting troops on Feb. 1. Secretary Baker did not know but thought that an understatement.

In his former statement that a million men more probably could be sent to France this year, Secretary Baker (Continued on Page 3, Col. 1.)

Baker explained he did not depend wholly on American shipping in his citations.

Senator Hitchcock said that on Nov. 30, the shipping board advised him the total gross available American tonnage was 582 ships of 3,721,806 tons, including tankers and former German and Austrian ships. Secretary Baker said he could not estimate how many troops that tonnage would supply.

The much discussed editorial in the Metropolitan magazine, of which Colonel Roosevelt was associate editor, attacking the war department's preparation to send troops to France, came up again. Secretary Baker had replied to the editorial in his first statement by saying that the war department had done more than the magazine contended it should.

"Did the editor have any information other than an ordinary citizen might have had at that time?" asked Senator Weeks.

"Oh, no," said Mr. Baker adding that in August when the article appeared he had been quite certain that the department could do more toward training troops than it suggested and also that there was good promise that he could be done toward getting them to France than the article proposed.

"I can answer that in this way," Mr. Baker said. "On Jan. 1 we had transported to France more troops than our schedule had called for."

"Both combatant and non-combatant troops?" asked Senator Weeks.

"That is the aggregate," Mr. Baker said.

Senator Weeks said he had heard that a military force near about forty per cent combatant troops.

Secretary Baker said he did not have the figures but agreed to furnish Senator Weeks confidentially figures as to the number of men shipped and the proportion of fighting troops.

Before General Bliss went to Europe, Mr. Baker said, an exhaustive study of the shipping situation was made. It was reviewed before he went back the second time to attend the sessions of the supreme war council. The secretary said the war department had kept in closest touch with the shipping board and the supreme war council had the data on which to reply.

Secretary Baker said he had not determined whether troops would be kept in the southern camps next summer. If the summer weather was as extreme as this winter has been, he said, some would have to be removed.

American tonnage losses, Secretary Baker said, have been exceedingly light. "The service the navy has rendered in the protection of the army," he said, "has been exemplified."

"Is there any prospect of more tonnage becoming available at an early date?" asked Senator Weeks.

"Oh, yes," Mr. Baker said. "I recall now that 130,000 tons additional has become available during the last 10 days."

The vessels were drawn from various lines where they had been replaced by neutral shipping.

Much of the tonnage, originally available for men and supplies had been diverted to the harbor and arsenal projects abroad, he said, and the purchase of artillery abroad had served to relieve shipping somewhat, although the necessity of transporting raw materials for the guns had figured in the final result.

Examination of Secretary Baker was interrupted while senators discussed going into executive session to permit the secretary to furnish confidential information. The discussion was precipitated by Senator Reed, who thought the committee was entitled to exact information to the number of men now in France and other subjects.

"I think the whole question of ships ought to be discussed in an executive session," said Secretary Baker, in reply to Chairman Chamberlain who asked his views. The tonnage matter, he added, involved international arrangements and he suggested that he be permitted to prepare a statement to show the status.

Secretary Baker agreed that the committee should have every available fact including confidential information. Senator Weeks said he wanted to develop just what could be done in getting men, munitions and other products abroad but without disclosing confidential matter.

The Massachusetts senator said, however, he thought there was "a good deal of camouflage about keeping information from the enemy which is published in annual reports and otherwise."

"I want to make a suggestion if I may," Secretary Baker interposed. "The misfortune for me if I may call it such, in my first statement to the committee, lay in the fact that I attempted to give opinions of the broad general situation as I saw it, when the information lay in details that ought to have been gotten from the experts in direct charge or in statistics giving specific facts. I was attempting a general survey. I was a misfortune for me to do that. I think it better to give the committee specific statements and the committee is entitled to that."

Secretary Baker proposed to have detailed statements of information prepared at the department and submitted to the committee and then if the committee desired to cross-examine him later regarding the statements he would gladly return.

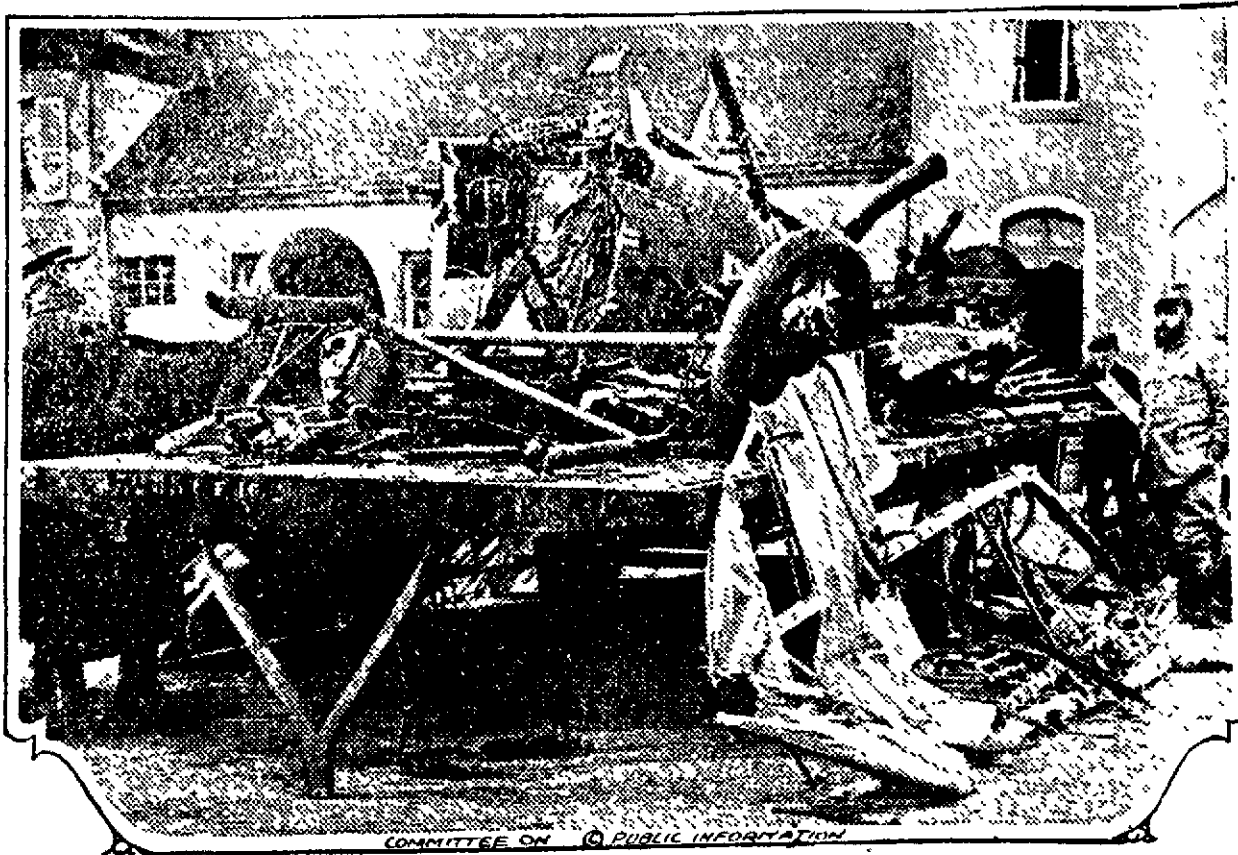

Senator Hitchcock asked if the secretary would object to giving the committee the basis for his opinion that he expected a million men would be in France before fall.

"Not in the least," said Mr. Baker. "I could have the committee go into the adjoining room and give it to you in three sentences."

Senator Hitchcock thought the information should be given the same publicity as his first statement.

"The secretary conveyed to the committee," said Senator Hitchcock, "information that I think was very

The fate of a taube.

But its adventurous German flier came too close to the trenches of the French. A French ace went aloft, there was a short battle in the air, the taube came down a wreck. It was mounted on a truck, as have been scores of others, and set up in the French town as a relic.

unfortunate. Did you consider shipping an important factor?"

"Very important—controlling," Mr. Baker replied. "I was not relying wholly on the supply of American shipping."

Senator Hitchcock said he did not wish to be misunderstood but only desired to find the basis of Mr. Baker's "assurance to the country" that a million men could be transported to France during 1918.

"You said you expected to have one million men in France in 1918. Now, how would you supply them?" he continued.

Mr. Baker read from his original statement that he had said a million and a half troops would be available for shipment in 1918 and that the prospect of forwarding them was not unpromising.

"Why you think it is not unpromising?" insisted Senator Hitchcock.

Secretary Baker replied that estimates made as to tonnage indicated the possibility.

There were other factors as to shipping, he added, such as vessels in non-essential trades or on domestic routes which might be available by sailing ships or neutral tonnage.

"I am asking you for the basis of your assurance to the country that the prospect was not unpromising, that we would have a million men in France in 1918," persisted Senator Hitchcock.

"I am anxious to tell you what is in my mind," answered Secretary Baker, asking again that he be permitted to explain his statement as far as possible without disclosing military information.

Upon Senator Weeks' suggestion the committee dropped the shipping question and the secretary could get information from his department to properly answer the question.

This will be furnished to the committee in executive session.

Senator Weeks then asked Secretary Baker if he knew how many pairs of shoes were required per man in the French and English armies.

Mr. Baker did not, but said he would obtain the information. The senator said he wanted to know in order to "determine if we are buying more shoes than are necessary."

Senator Weeks said he had received a letter in which it was charged that many men in the army are of German sympathy and that many "officers and men in conversations expressed pro-German sentiments."

The writer of the letter, he said, cited an instance of an American officer being sent home from France by General Pershing for that reason. The senator said he had heard of a chaplain who had been dismissed for similar reasons.

Secretary Baker said he had received no information of such conditions but would make an inquiry.

"I don't doubt but that something of that sort exists," said the Massachusetts senator, "and I think we ought to make an example of someone."

Senator Weeks suggested that the hearing be adjourned until Mr. Baker could furnish specific information desired.

Senator Reed said he was somewhat inclined to the view that it would be better to put "all our cards on the table."

"It might be well," he said, "to say we have so many men and so many guns and so many ships and we are going to be at your throat at a certain time; but that is not the way we are proceeding."

Senator Frelinghuysen interrupted and Senator Reed yielded.

"I want to ask a question, which I hope will pass the censor," said Senator Frelinghuysen with his eyes fixed on Senator Reed.

A tilt followed in which Senator Reed declared he had not been trying to "censor the meeting."

organization of the war department which they hoped would satisfy those who are pressing the bill for a director of munitions.

The committee adjourned until an executive session tomorrow when it will examine Major General Wheeler on supplies of explosives.

After Secretary Baker submits his statistics another public hearing may be arranged.

NO VERDICT YET IN KERNS CASE; JURY STILL OUT

In common pleas court Wednesday morning Judge T. B. Fulton instructed the jurors as to the law in the case of the State of Ohio vs. A. O. Kern and the jurors retired at 10 o'clock to consider the verdict.

At noon they had not arrived at a verdict and were permitted to go out to lunch and to resume the consideration of the case at 1 o'clock.

The court told the jurors that the burden is upon the state to prove every material allegation of the charge; that the state must prove that Kern willfully and maliciously set fire to the piano; that it was valued at least at $50; that it was his property; that he did it with prejudice and to defraud the Mechanics and Traders Insurance Company of Louisiana, the insurers; that they must prove these allegations true beyond a reasonable doubt.

The court defined a reasonable doubt as a doubt founded upon reason and told the jurors that any verdict arrived at must be by unanimous vote of the entire jury.

GROCCERS, BAKERS AND RESTAURANT PEOPLE CALLED FOR MEETING

Retail and wholesale grocers, bakers, restaurant-keepers, feed and flour dealers, will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. hall for the purpose of discussing with a representative from Food Administrator F. C. Croxton's office, the various new rules regarding the sale of foodstuffs. The meeting is being called by the Licking County Food Administration committee, at the request of Mr. Croxton, who is anxious that every grocer, baker, restaurant-keeper, etc., in Newark be made entirely familiar with the new rulings. The local committee believed that no local dealer would knowingly sell contrary to the rules laid down by the government authorities, and for this reason wants everyone to be acquainted with the desires of the government.

Several cases of infraction of the rules have been reported, and following this meeting, when everything will be made plain, strict enforcement of all rules will be made. Every grocer, baker and restaurant-keeper should be sure to attend this meeting, as absence from it, and consequent lack of knowledge of the rules will not excuse a dealer from any violation.

Following the meeting with the dealers, a meeting will be held with the members of the local committee.

W. S. STAMPS IN LIEU OF CHANGE

Suggest Taking Savings Stamps Rather Than Small Coins.

Columbus, O.—(Special.)—"Ask for your change in Thrift Stamps."

This is the suggestion that will confront hundreds of thousands of Ohio people patronizing mercantile establishments throughout the state, following a plan worked out by the Ohio War Savings committee.

Effect of such a movement will be obvious, the state committee believes. It will keep before practically all of Ohio people most of the time the War Savings plan and will be largely influential in advancing the campaign. With hundreds of thousands of people patronizing retail stores each day, many times receiving a small amount of change in transactions, the state committee is sure the scheme of taking Thrift Stamps in lieu of small coins will operate as an easy method of saving.

Signs carrying the foregoing suggestion will be placed conspicuously in thousands of retail establishments throughout the state within the next few days.

Love is the only sure cure for coquetry.

Courage and caution make a splendid working team.

Love is always sweeter when flavored with just a little discord.

THE MARVELOUS A-I-M STORY

Years of Search End On Almost Forsaken Farm In Mississippi

MEDICAL DISCOVERY MADE POVERTY STRICKEN FAMILY RICH

Everybody knew iron was good for people but to find it in medicinal form like in Acid Iron Mineral was where the trouble came, and while chemists were making tinctures, pills and tonics from "metallic iron" that was apt to ruin teeth, upset people's stomachs, etc., a farmer by the name of Horn, almost destitute, was barely getting enough to eat for himself and family on his little farm down in Mississippi.

The windows in his house lacked window panes and in their place were old bits of rags and clothing to keep out the insects, cold and drafts.

COLORED MAN FOUND IT.

Then one day a darkey, old and decrepit, blood diseased and slowly dying with great sores upon his limbs and body which it was said could never be cured, started digging a ditch and came upon this great medicinal iron deposit buried beneath a marble-like rock and clay covering which sheltered it from atmosphere and water down through the unknown centuries since the all-wise Creator put it there.

How the old darkey was cured by contact with this mineral and how that poor family near Hickory, Mississippi, suddenly became rich through leasing this deposit for ninety-nine years to the Ferrodine Chemical Corporation forms another chapter of this wonderful story.

Today, this Chemical Corporation, with latest methods takes the mineral and by a process of filtering, concentrating, testing and bottling makes it possible for anyone to visit the nearest drug store and procure it for the home treatment of blood.

Rheumatic, stomach and digestion troubles, and doctors, hospitals and surgeons acclaim it a splendid preparation and so cheap, so powerful, so good and free from injurious opiates, narcotics and alcohol, old and young may take it. Just a half to one teaspoonful in a glass of water makes a better, stronger, iron tonic for you. The local drug stores have it, or a large 12 ounce bottle will be sent anywhere on receipt of price by the Ferrodine Chemical Corp., Roanoke, Va.—Advertisement.

SOME DAY.

The following bits of verse were written by Philip Hillibrant, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Hillibrant, of North Eleventh street. He is a senior in the Newark High school, and calls the poem "Some Day":

Some day I may be called to go,
Providing I'm a man,
That has the courage and the gift,
To fight for Uncle Sam.

Anna Held.—The famous French star of musical comedy, who made her reappearance in Newark as a star at the head of her own company at the Auditorium last week, will be seen impersonating the character of the Tour, an actress of the Theatre Varieties. Miss Held is said to be a most brilliant artist than ever, and that she is capable of making her bewitching eyes do anything. She is a typical Broadway show in that she is of rapid tempo, exceedingly funny and sings numerous song hits and is presented by an exceedingly clever comedian which includes Harry Short, Venita

On Thursday the box office at the Shubert will be opened for the inaugural attraction, there on January 7, "Oh, Boy," a charming little comedy by the same management. "Daddy Long Legs," a charming little play, is not a stranger to Providence, for when it was here in the year 1900, it was warmly received by large audiences.

the company shows us new faces, gives a smooth and agreeable impression of Jean Webster's engastrama.

His interest attaches to the appearance of his relation of Frances Stirring. Miss Clarke has in a marked degree the stage technically labels of a "strong" actress. She possesses magnetism and projects her individuality across the footlights. "Strong" in the dramatic sense is not an intangible quality. It lifts a painstaking actor or actress out of the ranks of mediocrity. It is a quality that gives a performer a formidable capacity for hard work in inborn dramatic instinct, no one is to tell. It may be possessed by a weakling. Take, for instance, John Adams, but no matter who is its possessor or what are its handicaps, it is a quality that determines the personality of the kind that gets and successful actress, but

TOWN BOYS ON FARMS.

Last spring when it was proposed that high school, college, and other young men and boys be organized to do farm work, on account of the scarcity of agricultural labor, the farmers were quite scornful. The old saying: "A boy is a boy, two boys are a half boy, and three boys are no boy at all," was emphatically quoted.

The farmers were quite sure that this inexperienced help would be so ignorant of farm methods that it would be of little help. This attitude was illustrative of the farmer's traditional caution and conservatism, and perhaps illustrates why many farmers don't have a larger success.

It is interesting to learn that a great many farmers are now coming to the labor and employment bureaus and conservation committees, and asking for help from the high schools and colleges. Evidently the farmers found these fellows a great deal better workers than they ever expected.

The manager of one large fruit orchard wrote to one of these bureaus that it would have been utterly impossible for him to have harvested his crop last summer, had it not been for this despised boy-help. He said he harvested, last summer, $30,000 worth of fruit, largely done by boy-work. This year he wants all the boys he can get. When a young man has gone party way through a college or high school, he may not know much about farm tools or methods of cultivating. But his mind has been awakened by his study, and he takes in new ideas a great deal faster than ordinary ignorant farm help.

Wherefore, the people who are managing the campaign to increase farm-production should canvass very thoroughly for boy-labor. Every high school academy and college should be urged to recruit boys and young men for this purpose. And the farmers should be encouraged to take them. They will pick up new ideas quickly.

THE SPRUCE INDUSTRY.

Some months ago the success of the American airplane program was jeopardized by strikes in the spruce industry. German sympathizers rejoiced, and German spies were suspected of working to foment such strikes. In so far as they may have done so, their congratulations were short-lived.

No satisfactory substitute has yet been found for spruce in building planes. It is light and has great strength, the two essential qualities. Spruce is not as plenty as it was before the days of its free use for paper-making. But there is considerable left, particularly in Washington and Oregon, and the Canadian supplies must be fairly good.

DECLINE OF PACIFISM.

(Philadelphia Record.)

The announcement from Washington that Henry Ford of Detroit, has turned temporarily from the manufacture of automobiles to the construction of a new type of submarine chaser, which is expected to be much more effective than the craft now in commission, is interesting not only as a matter of naval news bearing on submarine warfare, but also because of the light it throws upon the mental growth of Mr. Ford himself. That gentleman is, notwithstanding his phenomenal success in business, a pronounced idealist in many ways, and when the war broke out his activities as a pacifist were such as to give great offense to a large proportion of his fellow-countrymen. His futile and rather ridiculous peace mission to Europe in 1915, undertaken with a view to "getting the boys out of the trenches before Christmas," testified to the sincerity of his beliefs, though it reflected rather severely on his grasp of the issues of the war. Mr. Ford confessed at that time that he never read history and that he knew nothing of the national and racial antagonisms of the countries of Europe.

His one thought was that war was a horrible thing, that millions of men were trying to kill one another without rhyme or reason, and that the one thing to do was to stop the slaughter by inviting all the belligerents to a sort of pink tea conference. It will be remembered that they unanimously refused to attend; that the boys stayed in the trenches, and that they have been there ever since.

Mr. Ford's conversion to an extremely bellicose frame of mind, so that he now wants to do all in his power to sink German submarines and drown their crews, may be taken as typical of the decline of pacifism in this country. Its advocates were a rather noisy crowd, making a clamor out of all proportion to their number, until a comparatively recent date. They are now rarely heard from. The entrance of the United States into the war naturally made their doctrine unpopular, if not actually disavowed, and the march of events has shown to many of them that their attitude was a mistaken one. Even the conscientious objector has very largely disappeared.

There has never been any doubt as to Mr. Ford's fervent patriotism, and his present stand is interesting particularly as showing the influence upon an idealistic mind of a growing comprehension of the issues involved in the present struggle and their influence upon one's own much loved native country. Doubtless the Detroit manufacturer's attitude is typical of that of many thousands of Americans. Pacifism is not proof against the stern logic of events, especially when the brutalities and the menace of German autocracy are arrayed against democratic freedom.

GERMAN PROPAGANDIST'S USEFUL ALLY.

(New York Sun.)

The credulous gossip who repeats every report detrimental to our country spreads his broadside of disquiet, suspicion and fear. He is the most useful, though perhaps the most innocent, ally that the German propagandist can attach to himself. He does the Kaiser's work without reward or hope of reward, but nevertheless he makes of himself an agent of Prussianism constantly laboring against the United States.

Whether the unverified tale be of scandals in war administration, of disasters on sea and shore, of incompetence in high places, of unsuccessful experiments, it serves the enemy purpose by disturbing the minds of those to whom it is repeated. Sometimes it is of a nature not capable of explicit denial; it may be a generalization so vague as to defy analysis. But its harmful work is done when it is bandied about, even though no more respectable source is assigned to it than the liar "they say."

These rumors, these "confidentially" retold falsehoods, are frequently untraceable. The malice that inspires them cannot be brought to light. But the stupid persons who give effective circulation to them can be detected and brought to book, and the federal authorities have announced that heretofore this form of giving aid and comfort to the enemy is to be dealt with seriously. Their resolution has not been taken too soon. The penalty that can be inflicted cannot be too severe. The circulators of false and malicious stories whose effect is to impair confidence in the country deserve the most rigorous punishment that can be inflicted on them.

SHOOTING STARS.

(Ohio State Journal.)

An article in a newspaper says nobody knows anything about a shooting star. On the other hand, a great deal is known about it, not precisely where it comes from or what it is in substance, but in a general way it is a pretty familiar object. The prevailing theory is that shooting stars originate in the solar system, possibly out of some little orb that has lost its bearings and exploded, or otherwise parted with some of its gas or substance, and this flying across the earth's orbit strikes the terrestrial atmosphere and is ignited by the friction with the air. As the air extends only 40 or 50 miles above the surface of the earth, all "shooting stars" are within that distance. In material most of these little lights are mere gaseous balls, while others are metallic in character, generally iron, but don't think they are stars, as some people do. No shooting star is over 50 miles away, while the nearest star is half that many trillions of miles distant.

AN UNHARVESTED CROP.

(Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

Thousands of cords of ancient wood lie on the ground in the scattered forests of Ohio. It is waste. The wood might be used now, but in a few years will have rotted away. Something like an organized effort is now to be made to persuade owners of this wood to saw it either for their own use or for the market.

There is unusual timeliness in the proposal. The coal shortage is still acute and will probably remain so till spring weather relieves the tension. Seasoned wood brings a high price in city markets, as any city dweller who has bought it will testify. Ohio's assistant fuel administrator declares that "hundreds of farmers have spent more time driving into town to try to get coal than would be necessary to cut enough wood to last two years."

It is not quite as simple as this, of course, for the burning of wood requires some readjustment of heating devices not readily to be effected. Yet there is accuracy enough in the comment to give many cause for thought.

Here is a substantial natural resource altogether too little utilized. If the owners of Ohio wood-lots could be persuaded to harvest this wasting crop at once it would add to the fuel supply of the state at a time when it is needed as perhaps it has never been needed before.

AN ARMY THAT BUILDS MEN.

(New York World.)

A decision of the highest importance is announced by General Crowder in the new rules governing classification of registrants in the selective draft. Fit men are to be made out of the unfit, and men who cannot be useful in the trenches are to have an opportunity to serve their country in other ways, releasing stronger men.

The reduction of minimum height to 58 inches and of weight to 100 pounds will of itself greatly increase the available number of young men in good health. Flat feet and other impediments to marching under heavy burdens are not incapacitating for army office work.

There remains a considerable class of the slightly unfit who can be made fit. Here the advice given with energy and ability by Dr. John H. Quayle of Cleveland, is to be followed in all our camps, and the average health of the nation must greatly benefit. Bad teeth can be filled and supplemented. Deficient lung capacity can be developed. Eyesight can be improved or assisted. Stomaching run of twenty-one can usually be made an inch taller by suitable exercise.

If the regenerative power of good food, air and exercise is made fully available to many thousands of men in the second rank of physical fitness, the nation will gain an increment of strength and self-confidence that will be some compensation for the cruel losses of battle. Death for some; for some, healing and heightened power—such will prove to be the lottery of war.

Pointed Observations

Secretary Baker admits that the War Department has made mistakes, the chief of which appears to have been the rusting of a great force of American troops to France without letting Germany know about it.—New York World.

QUAKER QUIPS.

(Philadelphia Record.)

Every man to his trade, but might few of us seem to be good traders.

Don't kick if you have to stand in a crowded car. Maybe this is a seatless day.

Don't worry for money. No man can tell from the price of a wife how much she is going to cost him.

There are times when a man feels almost as silly as the defendant in a breach of promise suit whose love letters are being read in court.

It's all right to take time by the forelock, but some men are in such a hurry to do things they hate to lose time finding out how to do them.

German Prisoners Lose Salaries.

As Germany has refused to accept our generous offer to continue the pay of all officers in confinement if she will do the same for ours, it has been cancelled. Hereafter our Teuton prisoners of war of every rank will receive the same treatment. It has, for a long time, been the custom of nations at war to give officers special quarters and food and allow them all, or a portion, of their pay, that they may secure comforts not ordinarily supplied. Unfortunately, what used to be called the "amenities of war" have disappeared of late, owing to the action of Germany. We are not going to treat our German prisoners badly, but we shall refuse them luxuries and money.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Water Power Not All Powerful.

Of course everybody sees now, or thinks he does, that if the water power which is going to waste in the country had been put to use there would have been no coal shortage. But isn't it possible that the supply would have been a little short of the demand just the same? Utilization of water power is a fine thing, but it would hardly cause the production of more coal than the market demands or the construction of a surplus of coal cars.—Topeka State Journal.

For City and Nation Alike.

It was high time for the government to recognize the value of the port of Philadelphia, and Director Webster and his colleagues deserve praise for their efforts to have our idle piers used in this time of stress. Philadelphia is the natural outlet for the industries of this region. It has ample facilities to do a large business. Yet for years our business men have seen New York preferred, even at the cost and inconvenience of an additional railway haul of 90 miles. With the railways in control of the government, the authority to direct traffic wherever it can best be speeded should be exercised. It is not now a merely local question, but a national one. It touches every community where the lines of our great railway systems reach.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Our South American Trade.

We still have a great advantage over all competitors in the South American trade. For one thing, the Continent considers the United States rather in the role of its protector against German aggression; and, for another, we offer by far the closest market to which its raw materials can be shipped. There are two fatal mistakes which we can make, but which we can also avoid. The first would be to brand as non-essential and discontinue the manufacture of goods which South America wishes from us. The other would be to continue to believe in the fallacy that the South Americans will not deal with the merchant who offers the greatest advantages. We have the natural advantages; but these can be overcome by well-developed commercial machinery.—Baltimore News.

The Impending Meat Shortage.

A temporary shortage of meat, particularly in the East, is admitted by the food administration to be an imminent probability. The admission is coupled, however, with a warning to would-be profiteers not to take advantage of a situation created by transportation difficulties and other causes which obstruct the processes of distribution and produce artificial scarcity. Of course, the food administration cannot bring the supply up to the level in the United States, which was in excess of 200 pounds per capita per year; three times what is actually required by the human system and twice as much as it can stand without injury.

The side of the coin which bears the most important device or inscription is called the obverse, the other side the reverse. Money as a medium of exchange existed prior to coined money and when of metal it passed by weight, no piece being adjusted to any precise weight, and all money being weighed when exchanged. The Lydians are supposed to have been the first people who used coined money, about 700 or 600 years before the Christian era. Coins have been the means of ascertaining the names of forgotten countries and cities, their position, their chronology, the succession of their kings, their customs, civil, military and religious, and the style of their art.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feed young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.
Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.
You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

GRANVILLE

(Special To The Advocate.)
Granville, O., Feb. 6.—Arthur Shattuck, a scholarly, refined artist, with abundant technique of the fireworks variety, yet who never descends to sensationalism in his playing, in brief, would be a characterization of Arthur Shattuck, who played here last evening. His program was an unusual one, in that it included a group taken bodily from one of Rubenstein's old programs. Notable features also were the brilliant scale passages in the last number of this group, a Fantasy on the Serenade from Don Juan, written by Thalberg, the grandmaster of the pianist Thalberg, who was here several years ago. The Liszt Polonaise, ending the program is an old "war-horse" among pianists, but it never has been played better from a technical standpoint than by Shattuck.

Professor Stickney, president of the Festival Association, announced the festival for March 16, and also stated that Arthur Middleton would undoubtedly appear here on the course some time in April.
After the concert last evening, Arthur Shattuck was initiated as an honorary member of the local chapter of Phi Mu Alpha, the national musical fraternity located here. Among the honorary members of the national organization many of the most famous artists in the country are numbered.

Among the out-of-town patrons of the Arthur Shattuck concert last evening were noted: Mrs. J. R. Fitzgibbon, Miss Florence King, Mrs. Larkin, Miss Bess Larkin, Mrs. Stasel, Miss Sarah Stasel, Mrs. Hamilton (Miss Mary Neal), Mrs. David Brown, Miss Smith of Newark.

Mrs. J. S. Jones left this morning to spend the day with friends in Columbus.

Rev. B. F. Griffith, who is conducting evangelistic services in Virginia, is spending a few days with his family in Granville.
Waldo Heinrich, Denison '13, is now engaged in chasing Boches in the air away from French territory, and seemingly finding the occupation much to his liking. Excerpts from his latest letter to his sister were read before the A. F. F. W. yesterday afternoon by Mrs. W. H. Johnson, and proved thrilling in the extreme, as he described in detail the operations of several of the sensational stunts used by air-fighters. The more detail of the clothing necessary for a man in flight may prove interesting to many knitters for the Red Cross. When young Heinrich's last ascended—over two miles and a half—he wore a heavy woolen undershirt, two pairs of woolen socks, a heavy flannel shirt, his suit, four knitted sweaters, a leather fur-lined coat, a helmet, two pairs of gloves, and still was cold!

The Lutheran knitted by Miss Minnie Jones from assorted remnants of yarns, was given to the A. F. F. W. yesterday, and received a tribute of admiration for the artistic blending of colors, brought together by a broad border of rose color.
Mrs. Biggs, president of the A. F. F. W., who was to have represented this committee at Columbus on the occasion of the visit to that place of Mrs. Lathrop, national president, reported yesterday that Mrs. Lathrop must hasten back to Paris without having visited the cities scheduled.

Mrs. Frank Ray, on request, spoke of the activities of Columbus women in behalf of the Red Cross "melting pot," and asked that all bits of broken gold or silver jewelry be thrown into the receptacle in the Granville bank; also, pieces of copper, brass, nickel, and so forth, all of which can be used by the government.

Mrs. J. D. Thompson heads a committee which is to manager lunch counter at the "white elephant sale" next week—Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons and evenings. The supper hour may consequently be passed at the bazaar with profit and enjoyment.

Mrs. Burton Case calls the committee on advertising of which the personnel: Mrs. Roe Morrow, Mrs. Ned Roberts, Mrs. Morrow Sheppard, Messrs. Roe Morrow, John Owen, E. H. Hammond and Dr. W. E. Clemons. Some clever schemes have been devised for giving publicity to the "white elephants," and the good time in store for everybody next week in the new Warner garage building.

Mrs. Richard Colwell is in receipt of a letter from her brother, Joseph B. Kerr of Salt Lake City, Utah, appraising her of the fact that he has been in a hospital since December, as the result of an automobile accident which demolished his car and almost ended his own career, through no fault, nor even carelessness of his. A public taxicab scurrying around a corner on the wrong side ran into his car with a violent impact. The weeks in hospital with broken bones and dislocated joints, the rest of his life still has many friends in this community who know him as a Granville boy and who extend sympathy to him in this painful accident.

Phi Mu Alpha entertained with a formal dinner in honor of Arthur Shattuck, at the residence of Professor and Mrs. Karl H. Eschman, Tuesday evening. After the dinner, at which covers were laid for twenty, the following guests attended the piano recital given by Mr. Shattuck: Mrs. Eschman, Mr. Soule, Mrs. Stickney, Messrs. Edna Shumaker, Florence Carnes, Laura Crater, Helen Stump, Helen Ray, Helen Cleftham and Mary Elizabeth Fuller.

Killed by Poisons

All scientists agree that poisonous products in the blood are eliminated by the kidneys and liver. These poisons, when the kidneys are changed or degenerated, by disease or old age, then these poisons are retained in the body. If we wish to prevent old age coming on too soon, or if we want to increase our chances for a long life, Dr. Pierce of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., says that you should drink plenty of water daily to enable the kidneys to do their work. Then procure at your nearest drug store Anuric. This Anuric drives the uric acid out. Scientists have learned that in gout, also rheumatism, poisonous uric acid crystals are deposited in or about the joints, in the muscles—where inflammation is set up.
If we wish to keep our kidneys in the best condition, diet of milk and vegetables with only little meat once a day is the most suitable. Drink plenty of pure water, take Anuric three times a day for a month. Anuric is many times more potent than lithia and dissolves uric acid as hot water does sugar.

SALINEVILLE, OHIO.—"I have used Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets with good results for pain in back and sides, and would recommend them to anyone suffering with kidney trouble."—R. W. GORD, Main Street.

COLUMBUS, OHIO.—"I have used Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets and found in them one of the best remedies for biliousness and to regulate the bowels. I suffered untold agony with bilious attacks and tried many remedies and my local doctors, with little relief. I was told of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets and received the first box. It was a blessing and lasting benefit I have ever found."—HENRY F. CHASE, 262 South Third St.

Our Boys and Girls

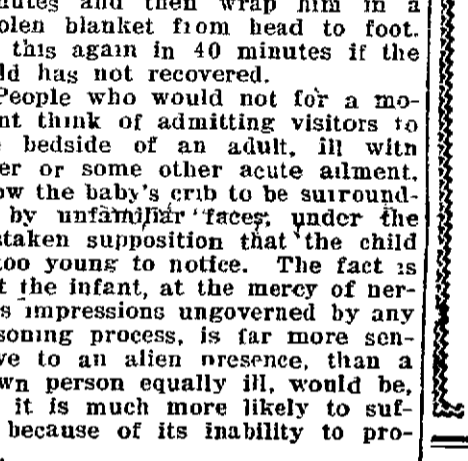

A healthy child should breathe easily and smoothly through its nostrils. If the breathing is hard and can be heard any great distance, there is something wrong. Many mothers are so frightened when their baby has convulsions that they do not know what to do while awaiting the doctor. You will usually find its little body tied up in a hard knot. Then act quickly. Place the child in a tub of hot water for 20 minutes and then wrap him in a woolen blanket from head to foot. Do this again in 40 minutes if the child has not recovered.

People who would not for a moment think of admitting visitors to the bedside of an adult, ill with fever or some other acute ailment, allow the baby's crib to be surrounded by unfamiliar faces, under the mistaken supposition that the child is too young to notice. The fact is that the infant, at the mercy of nervous impressions unguarded by any reasoning process, is far more sensitive to an alien presence, than a grown person equally ill, would be, and it is much more likely to suffer because of its inability to protest.

Sillicus—"Would you advise a frock coat or a cutaway for my wedding?"
Cynicus—"The frock coat, by all means. Save your cutaway for the divorce suit."

"Every time there's a storm I'm just worn out," complain the overshoes. "Well, I'm used up, too," retorted the umbrella.

FASHION HINT

This dress is made of white corduroy, cut in the Bolero effect in the back and tight in the front by means of a sash of the same material. The collar and the vestee strap in front are of faille silk and so are the cuffs. The dress can either be buttoned high or rolled into a reverse all the way down to the waist. It is free of trimmings and the simplicity of its design is its charm.

Beauty of the Eye.
The first essential to eye-beauty is health. In ill health the eyes become dull and strained-looking, showing deep hollows beneath them. Very often the eyelids become inflamed, and the correct these defects the general health must be improved. If the eyes are simply tired and burn from over-exertion, they should be bathed nightly with a lotion. The most soothing eye lotion is a 4 per cent solution of boric acid. Use an eye-cup when bathing the eyes, opening and closing the eyelids in the water.

If your eyes become very much inflamed from exposure, overstrain or congestion, you will find that warm tea-leaves will almost instantly remedy the condition. Apply the leaves in the form of a bandage, placing them in a piece of antiseptic gauze which is rolled over neatly. Tie the bandage over the eyes and allow it to remain for some time. Bathing the eyes with cold tea is also very soothing.

A solution of salt water will strengthen the eyes and make them more brilliant. Dissolve an even teaspoon of salt in a half pint of tepid water and bathe the eyes, using an eye-cup or a piece of absorbent cotton. When the inflammation of the eyes is caused from weeping, apply hot water to the eyelids to draw out the redness. To do this properly the cloth should be wet and laid over the lids, changing it as soon as the heat subsides.

Ten minutes of this will make the whole face red, and as the blood recedes the lids bleach with the rest of the skin.

When bathing your face be careful not to rub your eyes too roughly with the towel. This is often the cause of the redness that is so unsightly. Take care of your eyes properly and they will be beautiful, and you will possess beauty's greatest charm.

Every Day Etiquette

"When receiving an invitation to a party on a visiting card would it be proper to send the acceptance on your visiting card?" asked Ruth.
"Do not use your visiting card for the reply. Instead, write your acceptance on note paper in the third person," replied her aunt.

The Fuel Shortage.
The present cold spell has put the local fuel office back in the same place it was several weeks ago. The office is able to furnish run-of-mine coal four days after the orders are placed, but the lump coal cannot be furnished for at least 10 days after the orders have been placed. The fuel administration again states that coal can be bought from the local dealer only by ordering through the fuel office. Orders are being taken care of in the order received,
and no favoritism is shown.

SPECULATION IN COFFEE FORBIDDEN BY ADMINISTRATOR

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, Feb. 6.—Speculation
in green coffee on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange was ordered discontinued today by Food Administrator Hoover.

The prohibition is effected by forbidding dealing in green coffee on the exchange at a price above 8-12 cents a pound or type No. 7 on spot months.

The food administration's action was taken after a conference with members of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange in which dealers volunteered to take the necessary steps to eliminate coffee speculation.

The order is effective beginning today.

A special ruling was issued also prohibiting dealers in green coffee bean from having on hand or under control supplies more than necessary for 90 days.

Dealers will be restricted to profits no greater than those normally made in previous times and from taking of speculative profits of any nature.

It is further provided that green coffee dealers must keep the commodity moving without unreasonable delay.

U. S. WAR AIMS AND PEACE TERMS NOW BEFORE SENATORS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, Feb. 6.—A declaration of America's war aims and peace terms proposed for the senate was considered today by its foreign relations committee. Whether such a declaration would be timely and helpful to the president and the allies, in connection with its effect in Russia and Germany, was the principal question of procedure before the committee.

Three resolutions on the general subject of peace were under consideration and endorsement by the senate of President Wilson's peace address to congress of Jan. 8, 1918.
Specific approval of the president's 14 terms in his peace program and to disapprove secret diplomacy, and declaring for the right of each small and subject nationality to be represented at the peace conference.

Drafting of a composite committee resolution as a substitute for the three resolutions was favored by several members. The committee also was expected to consider spreading of American propaganda in Russia.

ENLISTED IN ARMY SO HIS BROTHER MIGHT BE EXEMPTED

Mrs. Laura Wilson of Dewey avenue today received word of the safe arrival of her son, Charles Wilson, of France. He is with Battery B, of the 11th F. A.

Mrs. Wilson has two sons, Charles and Arthur Wilson. The latter remained at home and had been the main support of his mother. The other boy, Charles, was fond of travel and spent little time at home. Both were of the draft age and both registered. Arthur was called among the first, but Charles'
number was among the last.

When he learned his brother had been drafted, he returned home and offered to give his services as a substitute for his brother on whom his mother depended. The board could not take him as a substitute, but when Charles voluntarily enlisted, it removed him as a possibility of support for his mother, and Arthur was exempted.

NO STOMACH PAIN, GAS, INDIGESTION IN FIVE MINUTES

"Pape's Diapepsin" is the Best Antacid and Stomach Regulator Known.

"Really does" put upset stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness due to acid fermentation in five minutes—that just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin
the largest selling stomach antacid and regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments and turns sour,
you belch gas and eructate undigested food or water; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated;
your insides filled with indigestible waste, remember—the moment
"Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin is worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the quickest, surest anti-acid for the stomach in the world.

HAD VISION OF FROZEN PIPES AS WATER SHUTS OFF

On Tuesday evening, when the city water was suddenly turned off, a real scare was thrown into the hearts of housewives of Newark. The day had been unusually cold, and when early in the evening the city water faucets in many homes failed to flow, the nightmare of the winter—frozen pipes—were the first thing that came into the minds of the women.

Hurry calls were sent for plumbers,
and the home remedies were applied immediately. One young woman rushing home from work, found no water in the house, and just a few weeks before the pipes had frozen and burst in her home.

The plumber work and she hurried to the bath room, took up the linoleum, the bath room floor and heated irons which she pushed up and down on the pipes.

This she kept up about an hour without result, and going to a neighbor for assistance found them working with torches and candles. An investigation showed that every one on the street was engaged in the same way.

For the past two days the supply was stuffed out in different sections in an effort to repair the pipes. The cause of the trouble could not be located and the supply was shut off last night to make the repairs. The shut-off came without warning, and it was some hours before many discovered the real trouble. It was turned into the pipes again before 9 o'clock.

MAXWELL CARS IN THEIR NEW HOME

Roy J. Baird, local distributor for the Maxwell car, has removed to 57-59 West Main street where he will be pleased to greet all his patrons and the public on February 15. The new quarters are large and roomy and will give him the opportunity of displaying to better advantage his big line of Maxwell cars, bicycles, and automobile and bicycle supplies. If you contemplate buying a car this season now is the time to leave your order as the congested freight traffic make it impossible to guarantee short-time deliveries. If you haven't seen the new Maxwell, stop and let Mr. Baird explain to you the merits of the new model.

ARE ADVERTISED MEDICINES WORTHLESS.

There is no more reason to condemn all advertised medicines than there is to condemn all physicians or all druggists. Fakes there are in every profession and in every trade, but they do not last long. Take a medicine like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the true test of its merit is the fact that for forty years it has been relieving women of America from the worst forms of female ailments, constantly growing in popularity and favor, until it is now recognized from ocean to ocean
as the standard remedy for female ills.—Advertisement.

SOLDIERS' LETTERS

Editor of The Advocate.—This letter is to the people of Licking county, Ohio. A little more than a score and eight years ago a great event took place in a certain house on Ninth street of the city of Newark, O. The event was that of a father's pride and a mother's joy for there was born into this world of many destinies a new life that was to take some part—be it small or be it great —in the progress of humanity. From that time until my graduation from high school I was carefully reared under the love and guidance of parents who knew the ways of the world, and were determined to give me the right kind of a start on life's journey.

Shortly after this period of my life I passed the civil service examination and was called to Washington, D. C., where I have spent the last seven years in government service. I was getting along very well under the peace and prosperity of the government but that peace was not to last for the war-cloud of Europe gradually spread its darkness to our shores and the next moment the trumpet's blast was sounding the call to arms, and the battleflares were unfurled in the breeze that was spreading the cry, "the need for men" all over this mighty land of ours. And, added to this, when the president of these United States of America spoke those mighty words that will have a foremost place in history for ever and ever, "that the day had come when America was privileged to give her all for the freedom of mankind," who of military age could desire to remain in the walk of life he had followed in peace and not take part in the great struggle?

Then came the draft and I was selected as one of many privileged to leave my desk in Washington and take an active part in this war, at least I am in training here at Camp Lee, and just where and when we go from here none of us can say.

Who could have foretold that America would ever be engaged in so great a struggle for the advancement and freedom of the world in which each of us should have some small part, either active or inactive.

Now, I want to thank the people of dear, old Licking county, very kindly for remembering me as one of her sons, whom she reared and prepared, in part at least, to meet the present crisis. It is with the utmost pride that I possess and wear
on my war-service medals,
which was so kindly presented to me
through The Newark Advocate. No matter where the needs of the war may take me, or how hard the struggle may be, I shall do my best—for the very reason that you so generously claim me, after having been absent so long, if for no other—to bring honor to the trust you thus place in me.

Until I again have the pleasure of writing, or better yet, of seeing you, I earnestly hope that the burdens of war do not press too heavily upon your shoulders.

Most sincerely,
Karl L. Schaus,
Co. E, 318th Infantry, Camp Lee, Virginia.

MOTHER'S HAPPY THOUGHT WORKED OUT PERFECTLY

Fretful, Sleepless Child Quickly
Soothed By Nerv-Worth.

The following Nerv-Worth story told by Druggist E. C. Myers, of Washington, Pa., who has sold several thousand bottles of this famous family tonic during the past year, is striking proof of the fact that Nerv-Worth is a royal friend of ailing little folks.

"I have known it (Nerv-Worth) being given to young babies for colic and other stomach and bowel troubles with perfect results. To cite an instance:

"A baby, 16 months old, would sleep during the day and keep awake during the night. This continued for some time and the parents were nearly exhausted. It also had considerable trouble with its stomach and bowels and was cross most of the time. The family physician was appealed to but without any satisfactory result. One night the mother gave it a dose of Nerv-Worth and in a few minutes baby was asleep and slept well the entire night. This was repeated each night and in a few nights baby came to know the Nerv-Worth bottle, would take it in its arms after getting the dose, and go to sleep. The child improved in every way. Sleep better, had no digestive or bowel trouble and became very happy and contented. Its parents are very grateful for Nerv-Worth."

HEALING RELIEF FOR TORTURING ECZEMA

Evans' Cut Rate Drug Store has sold hundreds of jars of Hokara, and although they offered to refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied purchaser, not one jar has been returned.

While this is surprising in itself, yet the most marvelous thing is the reports of chronic cases of eczema that have been cured by this simple skin food. People who have suffered with scales, scabs and even bleeding itching have found relief in Hokara.

No matter where the eczema, pinples or other breaking out occurs, whether on the face, hands, legs or body, the application of Hokara should give quick relief, and even the worst or most chronic cases should be cured in a short time.

You can buy a liberal-sized jar today at the very low price of 35c and with every package goes Evans' Cut Rate Drug Store's guarantee to refund the money if it is not satisfactory.—Advertisement.

CAPACITY AUDIENCE HEARS MESSAGE TOLD BY CAPT. WHITEHAIR

Graphic in its presentation and minute as to detail, the address of Capt. C. W. Whitehair, who appeared at the High School Auditorium Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the Rotary club, held the capacity audience enthralled until its conclusion.

Mr. Whitehair is a Y. M. C. A. worker, and not a fighter, but through his affiliation with the Y. M. C. A. he has been present at a number of the big drives, witnessed many of the tremendous battles, and taken cognizance of the manifold preparations. Mr. Whitehair succeeded in painting a word picture telling of the great preparations of a battle, its horrors, the care of the wounded, and the wonderful system that permeates it all. He brought clearly before his audience the realization of it all.

The High School Auditorium was filled to capacity and many stood. Capt. Whitehair wears no uniform, and informally brought his message from "over there."

The speaker was presented to the audience by Dr. C. B. Hatch, president of the Rotary club.

Captain Whitehair said that this war was not to be won by the money of the American people, although that is very necessary, but by the boys who go over to France and do the fighting. Of course they need the support of the people back here, but don't let yourself think you have "don't your bit" when you buy a

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Farnim (double strength) and add to it 1/2 pint of hot water and just a little sugar. It is directed in each package to take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises, and the Farnim should open, breathing becoming easy and the mucus stop dripping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Any one who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial. T. J. Evans—Advertisement.

BURKE GOLF CO. THRIFT CLUB IS DOING GOOD WORK

One of the very first Thrift clubs organized in Newark was at the Burke Golf Company's factory. The secretary, Miss Grace E. McMahon, sends the following report:

"The Burke Golf Company War Savings Society was organized January 17th, and cards taken out for a membership of between fifty and sixty. The club was organized by electing Mr. Geo. C. Jackson as president, and Grace E. McMahon, secretary. A great deal of enthusiasm was manifested at the meeting and this is growing as is shown by the increased sale of stamps. The Company presented each member with the first stamp and arrangements have been made for each member to purchase out of his or her pay a certain number of stamps each week.

"Yours truly,
"Grace E. McMahon,
"Secretary."

Manager Harry Eldon of the Lyric theatre is planning to give a short, practical Thrift talk to his patrons on Wednesday night, beginning this evening. He will speak briefly on the Thrift campaign and incidentally start several of the patrons with government savings accounts tonight. Those who go to the Lyric tonight will learn all about Mr. Eldon's unique idea of creating interest in the government war savings plan.

Mr. Ralph S. Wyeth obtained a quantity of literature and war savings stamps today for the purpose of bringing the government's war savings plan to the direct attention of everybody employed at the Wyeth factory in Columbia street.

Every bank in Licking county is requested to mail to the chairman of the war savings committee tomorrow at the close of the banking hours the report of stamp sales for the week ending February 7th. Postmasters in the 23 offices of Licking county are requested to forward their weekly reports at the close of tomorrow's business.

The state committee was so well pleased with the report of sales in the Newark schools that it was sent to every county in Ohio. The Newark superintendent, Mr. Hawkins, the teachers and the pupils are making a great record.

All members of the Newark Rotary club have consented to act as agents for war savings stamps.

Agents are requested to keep close watch on their supply of stamps and to request their postmen to keep them supplied constantly. Agents who desire more "blue postcards" with which to take orders for stamps greater than their supply are requested to write the county committee or phone No. 23,124.

War savings stamps bought in February for $4.12 are worth $4.14 in March. If held till Jan. 1, 1923 they are worth $5. The United States government is pledged to redeem them. These stamps are better than money itself because they increase in value and are not taxable.

The government asks the local war savings committee to establish 600 war savings agencies in Licking county at once. Today the number is a little over 500. Merchants, manufacturers, doctors, lawyers, teachers and others who are willing to buy a few dollars worth of stamps to sell to others are requested to call No. 23,124 automatic "Phone tomorrow morning. This is an important patriotic service that requires little effort and no expense unless the investment of a few dollars is regarded as an expense.

SEAT SALE FOR ELK MINSTREL OPENS FRIDAY

The seat-sale for the Elk minstrel will open Friday morning at 9 o'clock at the box office of the Auditorium theater, and those in line will be entitled to 10 tickets, but no more. This is in fairness to those who cannot arrange to be present, or who cannot find a substitute.

As there are about 1000 good seats on the lower floor and balcony and the entertainment is to be given for two evenings—Monday and Tuesday, February 11-12—there will be plenty of reservations for all ticket-purchasers. The report that there has been a complete sell-out for the two nights is not verified by the advance canvass for minstrel tickets.

The minstrel is given for a worthy cause and it is to be sincerely hoped that the big theater will be packed from pit to dome for the two evenings. Remember, that every penny of the net proceeds go to worthy causes—two-thirds to war activities and one-third to charity. If you have not yet purchased your tickets call up an Elk friend and arrange to do so at once.

The program this year is an excellent one, and on the bill will be seen some of the best-known men in the city—men who have a reputation for entertainment, including such well-known artists as Bernie Wingerter, Sylvester Galnor, Howard Kellar and Charlie Teaff, comedians par excellence: Val Crider, Frank Ewalt, Dave Denelsbeck, Fritz Drake and John Garrity, among the city's best vocalists.

The stage settings will be in keeping with former productions and the costumes will be along entirely new lines. The olio will be one of the best ever given at an Elk minstrel, and two hours and a half of rare enjoyment is in store for all who may attend. The curtain will be raised at 8:15 o'clock, prompt, and it is requested that all be in their seats at that hour.

EX-GOV. F. B. WILLIS ADDRESSED MEN AT CHURCH SUPPER

The third number of the lecture course of the Men's Bible class of the First Presbyterian church was held last night at the church and the speaker of the evening was Ex-governor Frank B. Willis. At seven o'clock a splendid supper was served by the ladies of the church and immediately afterwards George Hamilton introduced Mr. Willis. Mr. Hamilton had been closely associated with him during his administration and had been a worker with all of the governors since George K. Nash held that office and of them all none took so much interest in humanity as he in seeing that the laws were obeyed.

Mr. Willis responded to Mr. Hamilton by saying he made a good speech for a man who could not find the church as some difficulty was experienced by them before they finally reached their destination. He spoke of the marked difference in the view point of the men today in regard to church affairs in contrast to the men of a few years ago, when a congregation was composed mostly of women, two or three sad-eyed deacons, young boys and a very young man, whose interest was chiefly in the young ladies rather than the services which the square shouldered, red blooded men considered effeminate. The fact that this view point is changed is one of the most hopeful signs of Christianity; when the young men does not consider that the only way to have a good time is by doing evil. As an instance of this he cited a case at Camp Willis, when one day he visited there and found three thousand men in and around the Y. M. C. A. enjoying themselves there, rather than at some questionable resort, not because they had to but because it was their desire.

Mr. Willis spoke very highly of the Old Guard and in regard to the war said this country was facing a crisis even more serious than they did at Gettysburg; that every principal the United States stands for is in the balance and that there is no half way point but it is either win all and uphold our ideals or lose all and everything. In the first place, the Declaration of Independence, the fundamental principles of our government and the ideals it is characteristic of are all at stake. He quoted from a copy of the Kaiser's speech at Bremen, where he said he was appointed by the creator to lead the German people to victory and said that he had "gotten away" with it for today there are sixty millions of people fighting in this war and from a letter received from a soldier he read, "As sure as I can win this war I will be annexed to Germany, next would come Italy, Belgium, France, British Isles and then would come the final goal, the United States. The American people should show the spirit which Washington did at Valley Forge."

He told of the atrocities of the Turks under German officers to the Armenians, how the men were lined up against a wall and shot, the children loaded on barges and sunk far from shore and how women by tens of thousands were outraged. He said there surely was a court of retribution where these crimes would be punished. In regard to the commercial submarine, Deutschland, he told of how we bought their cargo and sold them supplies, protected them while in harbor and conveyed them to the three mile limit with our most powerful war ships and in appreciation of which the Kaiser gave us permission to send one ship a week to Europe for coal. The war was inevitable from the moment the Lusitania was sunk because if we submitted to that, every principle and ideal of the United States would have amounted to nothing.

The speaker said that the Italian line would hold but the boys in khaki from the United States would not hold the line in France but would move it to Berlin. In conclusion he told what those who must stay at home could do to help bring the war to a successful end. Buy Liberty bonds and war stamps; conserve food and fuel as outlined by the administration, for the greatest victory that ever was.

Mr. Willis a forceful and eloquent speaker and his speech was intensely interesting to all his hearers.
